Radio Program On University Canine

DEAN SMITH WILL BE INTRODUCED ON FOLLOWING PROGRAM SUNDAY

University Jack, DePauw University's famous campus canine of the gay '90's, will be vaulted into national fame Sunday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock when Bob Becker, whose radio program "Chats About Dogs," will carry Jack's name and fame from coast-to-coast. The story of University Jack has been told and re-told many times. It's latest appearance was in the December issue of the DePauw Alumni Magazine. The story was written by Russell Alexander, the magazine editor, from material furnished by George Black of the Daily Banner staff.

The story was read by Phil Maxwell, a Greencastle boy and DePauw graduate now on the staff of the Chicago Tribune, who was so impressed with the story of Jack that he showed it to Bob Becker. The imminent dog authority liked Jack's story so well that he will build his radio program this Sunday around him. The program will originate in station WGN, Chicago, but will be carried by the National Broadcasting Company.

DePauw will practically take over 45-minutes of radio time, for immediately following Becker's fifteen-minute broadcast, there will be a thirty-minute program entitled "Citizens of Tomorrow" starting at 1:30. This is handled by Phil Maxwell and at that time he will introduce Dean G. Herbert Smith of DePauw who is the new chairman of the scholarship committee which awards several thousand dollars worth of scholarships each year. This program is designed for high school students. The "Citizens of Tomorrow" is a promotion feature of Mr. Maxwell's origination for the Chicago Tribune and is proving most popular. DePauw awards a Rector scholarship each year to an outstanding high school senior on this program.

The city council will meet in regular session Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

LAUGH AT PROPAGANDA

Have Little Food Because Japanese
Army Is Living Off The Land;
Looted Stores and Homes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(UP)—American and Filipino troops today stood together awaiting "with loyalty, courage and resolution" a grand Japanese assault against the fox holes of Bataan and Corregidor's fortress.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported that the Japanese commander, Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma, is moving up strong forces of fresh troops along the narrow Bataan peninsula front.

At any moment, it appeared, a major Japanese attack—the fourth since the fall of Manila Jan. 2—may burst along the jungle and mountain lines which have held out for four weeks against constant battering.

MacArthur's forces were unmoved—either by frontal Japanese attacks or a Japanese propaganda campaign, crudely designed to separate the Filipino and American troops.

Burden of the propaganda—disseminated by leaflets dropped by Japanese planes—was that if the Filipinos gave up their fight they could erect "your new Philippines" for and by the Filipinos.

The appeal, MacArthur advised the war department, "has occasioned much mirth among the Filipino soldiers."

The Japanese appeal appeared to be vitiated by the actual treatment accorded the Filipino population by the conquering forces. Reliable advices from the islands said that actually the Japanese have introduced a type of rule comparable to the worst meted out by the Germans in occupied Europe.

Americans in Manila, it was said, are being allowed clean and fairly comfortable quarters but have been provided with little food because the Japanese occupation army of 200,000 troops or more is living off the land. Both civilian stores and homes were said to have been looted.

LOCAL SELECTEE WRITES OF ARMY CAMP IN CALIFORNIA

I, John V. English, was inducted in the U. S. army forces on Monday, December 29th, 1941. I was one of the fifteen spirits to be sent on the above date to Fort Benjamin Harrison before being transferred to our designated locations. Ten of our spirits were being sent to Camp Roberts, not including my brother, Cecil, who was drafted with me is now stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, in an Engineering Department.

Over six hundred spirits were on the rails five nights and four days en route here, leaving Ft. Ben approximately eleven o'clock Friday evening, January 2nd and fortunately arriving at Camp Roberts on the following Wednesday in early dawn.

Location—Camp Roberts is situated in the Salinas Valley midway between San Francisco and Los Angeles located on the historic Rancho de Nacimiento, somewhat north of the southern California orange groves. Camp Roberts is bounded on the east by the Salinas River and extends westward and northward to the Santa Lucia mountains. The seat of activities lies on the east end of Nacimiento Ranch, approximately three miles north of San Miguel and thirteen miles north of Paso Robles on the U. S. Highway 101, main route between San Francisco (205 miles north) and Los Angeles (230 miles south). The camp is situated 18 miles by the flight of a bird from the Pacific coast.

The camp has 1200 buildings and accommodates 29,000 officers and enlisted men.

Immediate purpose of the camp is to give training to selective service recruits and to accustom them to life in the army of the United States.

Camp Roberts was officially titled by the War Department in November, 1940, and is one of the few United States army posts named after a non-commissioned officer. He was Corporal Harold W. Roberts, a San Francisco lad of seventeen who enlisted in the army at Fort McDowell, California, on December 12, 1914. He served in the World War I in Company A, 344th Tank Corps, playing an active part in the Saint Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives. On October 4th, 1918, he heroically sacrificed his life in the Montebreu Woods to save the life of his fellow soldier when their tank foundered in a shell hole and completely submerged in water.

The construction of Camp Roberts, under supervision of Captain J. T. Smoody, constructing quartermaster, began on November 13, 1940, by two major contracting companies, Ford J. Twilts Company and Morrison-Knudsen Company, Inc., together with architectural engineers, Holmes & Narver, Inc.

Insist Wickard State Attitude

FARM BLOC HEARS PRICE CONTROL MAY RESULT FROM ATTITUDE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—Farm bloc senators asserted today they would demand of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard today a flat statement as to whether he intended to respect farm price provisions of the new price control act.

Expressing concern over a reported Agriculture Department attitude toward limitation of farm prices, the Senate agriculture committee called a special meeting, asking Wickard to come and state his official position.

Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, said farm price provisions were inserted in the measure "to guide the department, but they apparently are paying no attention to it."

"We want a definite statement from the secretary as to whether he intends to follow the law," Thomas added.

Senator Gillette, Democrat, Iowa, said that the department apparently intended to use stored government surpluses "to prevent the prices of certain farm commodities from reaching a ceiling position under terms of the price control bill."

"To use these government surpluses to drive down farm prices in my opinion is a clear violation of the spirit of the whole farm legislative program," the Iowan added.

REORGANIZATION PLAN FILED BY WILLKIE FIRM

CHICAGO, Jan. 30—(UP)—A plan for reorganization of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville railroad was filed today by the law firm headed by Wendell L. Willkie.

The firm represents the protective committee of the railroad's first mortgage bondholders. The plan was filed with clerk of the U. S. District Court and with the interstate commerce commission, which holds coordinate jurisdiction with the court.

Under the plan, the claims of all stockholders, holders of secured promissory notes—totaling $750,000—and unsecured creditors will be wiped out as of no value.

The plan contemplates the issuing of new first mortgage bonds bearing four per cent interest and maturing in 1982 and new second mortgage bonds bearing a continent rate of four and one half per cent.

Rebukes 'Parasites' Jamming Capital

PRES. ROOSEVELT WANTS UN-
NEEDED WASHINGTON RESI-DENTS OUT OF WAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—President Roosevelt used blunt language today in warning individuals he described as "parasites"—persons living here only for social reasons—to move out and make room for war workers who are coming here at the rate of 1,000 a week.

The press conference statement may or may not have sent shivers down the spines of socialites who can claim no war connection. But one thing was certain—it did bring relief to thousands of long-time natives who read morning headlines that they may be forced to give up their homes and leave the city if not engaged in essential wartime activities.

The chief executive, prepared in advance for press conference questions as to the meaning of this threat—made before a House committee yesterday by Charles F. Palmer, federal defense housing coordinator—said Palmer had in mind only those people living here for social reasons, those with twenty-room homes on swanky Massachusetts Avenue, or those who balk at leaving merely because they want to keep children in schools here.

Mr. Roosevelt suggested writing a story with a big headline asking "Are You a Parasite?" He then expressed the opinion that the wartime powers inherent in the chief executive were sufficient to take over not only hotels and apartment buildings, but smaller dwellings for war purposes.

LONDON, Jan. 31 (UP)—German troops on the Moscow front have resorted to suicide attacks, such as they used when the tide turned against them at Leningrad, in desperate attempts to halt the Russian drive, a Russian war communique said today.

Roads Dangerous Saturday Morning

TEMPERATURE DROPPED AL-LOWING WATER TO FREEZE;
FORECAST IS COLDER

Saturday morning's rain at seven o'clock began turning to snow and ice within fifteen minutes and motorists were warned to stay off the highways unless it was absolutely necessary to be out, because of the dangerous conditions of the pavement.

The temperature at seven o'clock was about 34 degrees, but it dropped a few degrees within the next two hours and the slight drop allowed the water to freeze and thus the ice made it hazardous for traffic, as well as quite inconvenient for any who had to be out, even for a pedestrian.

The weather forecast for the week-end is for colder temperatures and many were of the opinion that the mild weather has prevailed for the past two weeks is a thing of the past for the month of February.

BRITISH NAVAL BASE

HORDS OF JAPS ATTACKING

Exhausted British and Australian
Troops Make Desperate Stand
To Hold Off Invaders

SINGAPORE, Jan. 31—(UP)—Imperial forces moved into defensive positions on the north shore of Singapore island today as the British, Australian and Indian troops on the mainland, fighting a stout rear guard action, fell back toward the southern tip of the Malay peninsula for a stand against Japanese shock troops driving relentlessly southward.

Navy men at the great base east of the causeway across the strait joined with men of the land forces in organizing defense positions which, if the worst comes, will be used to hold off the Japanese from the island itself.

Singapore went under a strict 9 p. m.-5 a. m. military curfew as the rumble of guns approached the island and the climactic phase of the Malay campaign seemed at hand.

At the front, now so perilously close, imperial transport was moving southward toward the battle ground on the tip of the peninsula.

SINGAPORE, Jan. 31 (UP)—British Empire troops, beaten back by an overwhelming Japanese attack, withdrew today from the mainland of Malaysia today and the battle for Singapore began.

The British, Australian and Indian troops who had fought for weeks with impossible odds against more than 100,000 Japanese shock troops, withdrew to this island during the night under cover of a rear guard which held the causeway across the strait, and a bombardment by all guns of the island garrison which could be brought into action.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 31.—(UP)—A powerful Japanese invasion fleet has been sighted heading for Ambon island, the great Dutch naval and air force base at the east end of the Netherlands Indies, and a landing attempt may be made today, a communique of the Royal Australian Air Force said.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(UP)—German submarines prowling the Atlantic coast from Nova Scotia to Florida struck new blows today at the tanker fleet—those oil-laden ships so essential to the American war effort.

The 6,836-ton Socony-Vacuum tanker Rochester was the latest submarine victim. Although the navy did not disclose whether the ship was sunk, there were indications that it had suffered an extremely serious, if not mortal blow.

BATAVIA, Jan. 31 (UP)—Netherlands Indies troops, aided by guerrillas are fighting fiercely still against the Japanese at Balikpapan, on the east coast of Borneo, military advices said today.

Though for days it had been indicated that the Dutch had retreated, later advices were that they were fighting not only in the suburbs but in the town itself and that the Japanese so far had been unable to enlarge the foothold which they won in their first attack.

TRIBUTES PAID FORMER PUTNAM RESIDENT IN WEST

W. F. Surber of Monroe township, is in receipt of copies of the Pasadena, Calif., Star-News which had the following regarding the funeral of his daughter, Mrs. Viola S. Curry, which was conducted by the Rev. Wesley Goodson Nicholson, assistant pastor of the Neighborhood church:

"Viola Curry will be remembered by her wisdom and her complete dedication to the improvement of mankind," said Dr. Nicholson in conducting funeral services at the Ives and Warren Chapel.

"Possessed of a mind that quickly grasped essential truths and sensed the relatedness of knowledge she seemed not to require the usual number of hours to master any given field of study, and in her junior year was honored by acceptance into Phi Beta Kappa."

Mrs. Curry at the close of her senior year at the University of Iowa was given the Sanxay prize for showing the greatest promise of further development in graduate work. She is the only woman to have received this honor.

Dr. Nicholson brought out the fact that she balanced her intellectual attainments with a well rounded extra curricular life.

"After majoring in art as an undergraduate, Mrs. Curry went to Columbia University on a fellowship and chose the graduate school of biology to major in the field of genetics and its relation to the science of happy living. She received her master's degree in 1932, and came to Pasadena to become connected with Caltech.

"Her love of truth carried over into the more intimate personal relations. She found it inconceivable to be dishonest. Her own personal integrity caused her to have a native rust in people. She loved life in all its phases. She faced it with the soul of an artist, the skill of research, the breadth of wisdom, with human interest, kindness, and generosity. She achieved a great memory."

Mrs. Curry's own recording of a piano performance of Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata was played. Her brother-in-law, Dryden Carver, Jr., sang a special arrangement of "Ave Maria."

In the biology department at Caltech Mrs. Curry found an outlet for her intense interest in genetics, since inheritance mechanisms were studied through the use of hundreds of species of the "vinegar" fly which had been developed there. This is said to be the largest collection in existence, and is called upon to furnish strains of these flies to research institutions all over the world.

A DOWN TOWN DRIVER ENDANGERED EARLY TRAFFIC

An east bound automobile driver took morning at 9:20 o'clock not only took great chances for himself but endangered traffic and citizens in general, when he crossed Indiana street at Washington street at about 40 miles an hour, and continued his high speed east on Washington street.

Had he even attempted to stop at the high speed, he would have skidded a block before coming to a halt and by that time, had a car blocked his path, the damage would have been done and there would have been no need of an ambulance. There would have been some funerals scheduled.

FIGHTERS MAIL RECEIVED

L. E. Miller, night clerk at Greencastle postoffice, last night much surprised when he found incoming mail, a post card addressed to "Milburn Henke's Mom and Pa Greencastle, Ind." Milburn Henke was pictured in Friday's Daily Banner as the first United States soldier in the U. S. Expeditionary Force in Northern Ireland, and Miller had seen that photo, along with others of the same soldier. The card originally was addressed to Hutchison, Ind., but en route had been changed to Greencastle. Some one handling it evidently knew there is no postoffice in the state named Hutchison, but having knowledge of the former Hutchison stop on the interurban railroad, Miller knew that the soldier's "mom and pop" live at Hutchison, Ind. and he forwarded the card to that office. He also attached to it a clipping from The Daily Banner of a photo of the young American soldier in Ireland.

Hawks Lose To Clay City Eels

COME FROM BEHIND TO WIN FROM ROACHDALE BY 28-26 DECISION

Clay City came from behind Friday afternoon in the Wabash Valley tourney underway at Terre Haute, to defeat Roachdale by a 28 to 26 decision.

The Hawks from Putnam county led the first three quarters of the contest but the Eels spurred in the final frame to tie up the tilt at 23-all, and then go into the lead which they held until the gun. Roachdale was out in front, 12 to 8 at the quarter, and 17 to 12 at the half. The Hawks were still ahead 23 to 21 as the fourth period started. Clay City knotted the count at 23-23 and then proceeded to tally 5 more points while holding Roachdale to 3, and the battle ended with the Eels the winners, 28 to 26.

Clay City, you may recall, is the team that nosed out Brazil last Saturday night in an overtime tilt to win the right to compete in the championship round at Terre Haute. Roachdale won the local tournament by defeating Russellville, 34 to 23.

The Roachdale boys played a good game Friday afternoon and it was a heart-breaker to lose. Clay City deserves plenty of credit for the victory as they had to wave an all-out attack against the north Putnam aggregation.

Al Thomas, Roachdale ace, left the game via the personal foul route in the last minute of play. Morris, Hawk guard, snagged a field goal and was fouled as he shot, making the score 28-26. Roachdale played smart basketball and took the ball out-of-bounds in an effort to connect with another bucket. A shot at the hoop was no good and the contest was over much to the disappointment of the Putnam county drapery agitators.

Tigers Defeated By Seymour Owls

GREENCASTLE "B" TEAM DOWNED HOWARD TOWNSHIP VARSITY; DRUM CORPS FEATURE

A lanky, well-coached Seymour high school basketball team took the measure of the Greencastle Tiger Cubs in the local gym Friday night to the tune of 33 to 25. The visiting netters were aided considerably by a second quarter which saw the Cubs register a lone free throw while the Owls rang up 11 points to lead at the rest intermission, 17 to 9.

The Cubs jumped ahead 5 to 4 in the opening frame and tallied a total of 8 points to Seymour's 6 at the expiration of the first eight minutes of competition. The disastrous second quarter followed and the locals trailed by 8 points.

Greencastle came back strong in the third period and outscored the visitors, 9-7, and the count was 24 to 18 in favor of the Owls. Coach Chet Elson substituted freely in an effort to overtake the Seymour aggregation. The Cubs had difficulty in finding the basket range and the Owls controlled the air-inflated leather sphere on the rebounds.

With three minutes to play Seymour began a stall that the Greencastle boys apparently could not break up. The score was 29 to 20. Sparks, flashy forward, connected and it was 31-20. Grimes made good one a free throw and Goodman hit from the side and it was, 33-23. The Owls continued to stall, the Cubs getting possession of the ball when a Seymour player traveled. Giddings swished the drape from far out and the final gun exploded with Seymour winning, 33 to 25.

In the curtain raiser, the Greencastle "B" team downed the Howard Township varsity, 22 to 14. The Howard Township boys from up near Kokomo are coached by George Davis, who taught history in the junior high school here last year.

Between halves of the Seymour-Greencastle tilt, the school's drum corps gave a splendid performance and looked exceedingly smart in their new uniforms. The playing of the national anthem in a blackouted gymnasium featured this part of the entertainment.

CONCERNING BUTTONS: As a matter of information to local housewives, certain facts about buttons should be considered. Pearl Buttons, made from mother of pearl shell, have proved their superiority over every other type of button. No other button combines the durability, lustre and beauty of pearls. It is important, therefore, that you examine carefully the buttons on wash garments you buy. If they are Pearl Buttons you can be certain of the service they will render, and you can be assured that their presence is a sign of quality in the garment itself. See that all wash garments you purchase have Pearl Buttons. 30-31-2t.

We often hear women say "My room is just an ordinary room not like other rooms I see." With that there is a resigned feeling that there is something mysterious about the other rooms, they so admire.

Every room has possibilities. They all, at first are just ordinary four walled rooms. It is all in the way you combine colors for a pleasant effect, choose furniture that is right in scale, and place that furniture just right for balance, comfort and convenience.

Select the right rugs, draperies and accessories. There is no excuse for these ordinary rooms.

If you are interested in making your rooms more attractive and want to know how to do it, consult Katharine Tinscher. She will gladly tell you, without obligating you in the slightest way. Phone Mrs. Tinscher or call at 1905 S. Indiana. 31-1t.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Johnny Mason, young attorney, meets and marries a girl during a trip to Boston. He brings his bride, Jane, to New York. First his boss, Judge Doolittle, who has a daughter, Eunice, resents the marriage, and then Johnny's mother faints when Jane tells her she is Johnny's wife. Mrs. Mason's opposition to Jane is evident. Johnny and Jane get on the SS. Normandie for their honeymoon trip. Carter, of the law office, gets them off the boat. Johnny is wanted at the office to handle a case at once. After they are settled in an apartment, Jane gives a dinner for the judge, his daughter, and Carter. She believes Johnny is about to get a partnership in the firm. Everything goes wrong at the dinner. At last the judge clears his throat and announces an addition to the firm is being made.

Chapter Three

Jane gazed fondly across the table at Johnny as the judge continued with his announcement. "Yes," said Doolittle, "the firm will be Doolittle — Messerschmidt — Doolittle — Hutch — " He glanced again at Eunice. " — and Carter!" the judge concluded.

Johnny stumbled to his feet, offering an outstretched hand to Carter. Jane could only look at Johnny, her eyes filled with tears, knowing his disappointment.

"I'm asking everyone to take a 25 per cent salary cut."

Somehow the evening ended and the guests left. Jane was alone in the kitchen with a stack of dishes. In the other room she could hear Mrs. Mason talking to Johnny.

"If you hadn't rushed into this marriage there wouldn't have been any question about your getting the partnership," Mrs. Mason was saying.

"My partnership with Jane is all the partnership I need," came Johnny's answer. "And mother, there's something else I don't like to mention this, but it's not easy for Jane, and I do wish you'd try to make it any more difficult."

Offended, her voice querulous, Mrs. Mason answered, "Is that the way you feel about it?"

"Yes, mother, that's the way I feel about it."

Jane's heart skipped a beat. All her disappointments and depressions over the dinner party and its stunning outcome faded away. Smiling, humming under her breath, she began to wash the dishes.

In a few weeks, Jane had even greater cause for happiness. She went straight from the doctor's office to the courtroom where Johnny was pleading a case. She heard her husband's brilliant summation to the jury, then beckoned him to her side. There, together, they shared the news that Jane was to become a mother. When the jury returned, bringing a verdict in favor of Johnny's client, neither knew or cared anything about the case, or courts, or the law.

Johnny was at the hospital when the baby was born several months later, beside himself with worry over Jane, with happiness at the glad event, and wonder at the mystery of it all.

As he rushed up to the door of the delivery room, a nurse came out, holding in her arms a new-born infant.

"Is this — mine?" asked Johnny, incredulous.

"Yes," said the nurse, in a matter-of-fact voice, "that's your baby."

The news was too much for him. They put him to bed in a room with small windows.

Johnny, after a baby's crib. His spirits already had been depressed because he had met classmates who already had found the road to success, while he, most likely to succeed, was still a

RENO, Nevada

More people now come to Reno to get married than arrive all set for a divorce. And more and more folks are coming here to save money than breeze in to squander it in Reno's wide-open gambling halls.

The reason? It is even more simple to get married in Reno than divorced and, although you can spend a fortune at local gambling tables every hour, you can also save a tidy sum every year at the State tax-collector's office. There are no income, inheritance, corporation or sales taxes in Nevada.

Of course the divorce mills that have made this city famous are still grinding. But there isn't so large a percentage of broken romances here as you might imagine. Dry statistics prove there are twice as many marriages in Reno as there are divorces and Cupid continues to gain steadily on separations as more and more outsiders, harassed by their own state's complicated marriage laws, flock here for the quick and easy ceremony possible in Nevada.

When California's new pre-marriage medical examination law went into effect, marriage in Reno immediately jumped from five hundred a month to nearly three that figure. Farther south, at Las Vegas, the marriage business has zoomed to even loftier heights. That city of 11,000 produced four times as many happy brides and grooms this year than there are people in town.

Many Californians also come here to dodge their sales tax, making their heavy purchases at a saving of three percent. Many more have legally severed connections with California tax laws by residing out of that State three months of the year. They can establish residence here in a brief six weeks, during which period they can leave the county and state every day, just so they are back before twenty-four hours have elapsed. It is that easy to shed the burden of heavy state taxes and then enjoy the lighter levies of Nevada.

Reno's swanky Riverside Hotel, which has long catered to prospective divorcees and folks on a gambling spree, may soon become the rendezvous of newlyweds and tax dodgers. Gambling halls are still handy and divorcees are still cared for at this establishment, with the famous Washoe county courthouse at the back door, ready to remove their wedding rings and the equally famous Truckee River at the front door, ready to receive them. But along that river lies a city that may be destined to profit more from quick, easy marriage and a tax system that is kind to your pocketbook than from gambling halls and divorce that is kind to your fickle heart.

This rapidly changing state of affairs may bring about a boom greater than the one that blossomed as Reno was born, when, in 1868, two-hundred lots were sold the first day Reno was laid out and the town sprang into riotous and prospering existence overnight.

We may soon come to think of Reno as less of a gambling and divorce center and more of a marrying town full of people who make lots of money and want to keep it.

TREAT HORSES' MOUTHS

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 31.—Now is the time to treat farm work horses for such internal parasites as bots, round-worms, and palisade or blood worms, reports Prof. R. B. Cooley of the Purdue University animal husbandry department. Much loss of feed and efficiency in work results from neglected cases.

Symptoms that indicate infestation of these pests are poor condition of animals, stunted growth, occasional passing of worms, irregular appetite, frequent attacks of colic, and sometimes rubbing of the tail. Frequently it is difficult to recognize well-marked symptoms, though the animal requires treatment, adds the specialist.

The saving in feed that results from treating one horse often will pay the veterinarian's bill for treating several horses. Also, when parasites are not expelled from foals, the colts frequently become unthrifty and have but little value. The cost of a clean-up is small when carried out on a community-wide basis. Cooley urges farmers to consult their county agricultural agent or local veterinarian about treatment.

Changing horses to different pastures during the summer is important, because parasitic development is constantly taking place from each individual pile of manure. By rotating pastures or allowing fields to rest for intervals, the exposure to parasites is greatly decreased. On diversified crop-farms, where pasture land has not been grazed by horses for a year or more, such areas may be used to good advantage, especially for foals.

The manner in which horses are fed and handled during January and February will have much to do with their fitness for farm work in April and May, explains Cooley. Stalk fields, even with access to a straw pile, do not furnish the necessary feed nutrients for horses. At least one feed daily of good quality alfalfa, red clover, sheaf oats, or soybean hay should be provided. When horses are low in flesh in early winter, it is better to feed them one-half to one pound of grain daily per 100 pounds live weight, than to allow them to get too thin, if they are to do their best field work in the early spring. It takes from 60 to 90 days of good feeding to put a horse in good condition, so it is cheaper to keep the horses in fair flesh in advance of the spring's work. Two-thirds whole oats and one-third shelled or ear corn by weight makes a good grain ration and may be fed outside in bunks that are used for feeding hay, states Cooley. Horses need not be kept warm but their shelter should keep them dry and protected from the wind.

Horses should have access to clean water, at least twice daily in winter—oftener is better. Loose salt should be within their reach at all times.

If horses are to be kept in good health, plenty of exercise is necessary. Small lots and straw yards, unless open to larger areas, are not satisfactory, as horses do not move around enough in them.
